About Jagruti Engineering

Jagruti Engineering was established in the year 2022 in Gujarat, India. We are a manufacturer and supplier of end Carriage, Electric Chain Hoists and a lot more.

Owing to our excellent manufacturing capabilities, we have been carrying out large-scale & hassle-free production. All the equipment and machines that accelerate the production process are fitted in our production unit. By introducing innovation in terms of working styles, production methods, product lines and technologies, we can maintain our consistent performance.

Our Manufacturing Facilities

Our manufacturing unit is well organized and facilitated with modern machines and units. It is supported by an in-house design unit where our engineers rack their brains to come up with innovative designs for Material Handling Equipment. These practical and application-based designs are commended by our customers.

The technologies that we use in the manufacturing unit are advanced and help in manufacturing precise equipment. We also ensure periodic upgrades, which enable us to make use of high-end technologies and discard outdated ones. Apart from an advanced production unit, we have some other departments like Quality Testing and Research & Development.

Our Team

The organizational commitment made by our team is symbolic of its dedicated nature. We have purposely created a teamwork environment that helps streamline the business activities. Our team members are proactive and prepared to take on challenges in every sphere. Also, the training sessions and workshops organized by the organization aim at keeping the professionals aware of the changing trends.
